Oklahoma's Updated Move Over Law

The law requires drivers to slow down and, when possible, move over to the next lane when approaching a vehicle with flashing lights. Failure to do so will now result in steeper penalties than before.

Oklahoma also bans texting while driving for all drivers and, as of November 1, 2025, prohibits holding a cell phone in active school and work zones. Only hands-free use is allowed in these critical areas.

Penalties for texting include a $100 fine, with higher fines for repeat offenses. Violations in school or work zones may result in increased fines and potential license suspension if an accident occurs.

Commercial drivers face stricter rules, with hand-held phone calls banned statewide.
